

Watership Down:

When Hazel returned hours later, he found Fiver, Bigwig and the rest of his lagomorphic comrades shivering in the dew-drenched gully at meadow's edge. "I've never seen anything quite like it," he finally offered, suddenly aware of exactly how much time had passed since he left to scout out the new warren. "I don't think they're dangerous," he added with a small belch, "although they're not much like the folks back home...."

In our podcast for today Popup Chinese offers yet another take on a Western literary classic. In this case we Sinocize Richard Adams' Watership Down. Listen in if you're curious what life is like for Chinese rabbits, or just want to learn how to use simple adjectives in conversation.

Text :

- 甲： 天气真好啊。
tiānqì zhēn hǎo a 。
The weather is great.
- 乙： 嗯。
en 。
Hmmm.
- 甲： 生菜也很好吃。
shēngcài yě hěn hǎochī 。
The lettuce is also very tasty.
- 乙： 生活真好。
shēnghuó zhēn hǎo 。
Life is great.
- 甲： 生活真好。
shēnghuó zhēn hǎo 。
Life is really good.
- 乙： 嗯。
en 。
Hmmm.

Vocabulary :

天气	tiānqì	weather
生活	shēnghuó	life
生菜	shēngcài	lettuce
很	hěn	very
真	zhēn	really
好	hǎo	good
也	yě	also
好吃	hǎochī	tasty
兔子	tùzi	rabbit
累	lèi	tired
饿	è	hungry